Third Stage 2. Target 3. 1321-3236

April 25 2018. 5:35 PM Start.

Lots of people are walking here quickly, their feet have shoes and I see and hear the shoes against a hard polished floor, the floor appears to be shiny and blue and made out of tiles. Lots of movement of feet on that floor, rushed and quick but I do not feel any danger, panic, or chaos.

It is daylight, the sun is shining, and people are outdoors. The sky is blue. It is a happy and cheerful mood, and there is a lot of talking going on, there is a crowd of a lot of people and they are chatting with each other outdoors.

There are a lot of people, maybe up to a hundred, standing right next to each other in a cluster and they are chatting in a good mood. Then they look up, and there is a red diagonal bar or strap that reaches there. They are chatting a lot, talking, about what goes on up above in the sky with the diagonal rusty-red colored bar. It is being constructed, it is a construction. And there is a manhole there on the ground, one of those round lids that can be lifted so that someone could go under the ground under the street.

There is a body laying on the ground.

Well, there is a sunshine to the left of the image. It is a bright sunny day outdoors. Then there is a rusty red colored object higher up in the sky. There is a tall building with window glass in the upper center. Some type of a crane to the top right.

On the center left is a metal bar that could spike into someone's belly like a pole, it is light gray colored. In the center is the crowd gathering of people standing there. Center right is a door entrance to the rusty red colored building.

Bottom left has the ring again that I earlier saw as a manhole but this time it is aligned 90 degrees the other way and being carried in by someone.

The rusty red building seems to be central to the target. A lot of people go there, lots of feet and footsteps walking there, very busy with footsteps, the people have shoes on, lots and lots of feet walking there. But these people walk together in a crowd, they move together. They go outside of the building right outside of it and they look up at the rusty red colored diagonal crane or bar up there.

It feels like we are in a city. The streets feel paved and gray and there are many buildings around us like in a city. It is a bright sunny day and people came outdoors to watch something. Something that came down onto the ground. The rusty red metal bar that is up in the sky.

It is a construction site (superb, I said that earlier also, and here it comes again). But someone fell onto the manhole. They are looking up at the diagonal bar and chatting and talking a lot about it. 3236 describes the building that was being built. It is rusty red in color, rather tall but not a skyscraper, and it is a robust building. There is a door to it. When it was being constructed, one of the rusty red colored bars that were being hoisted up by a crane, a man fell off of it and landed on the manhole on the ground down below.

A lot of people gathered up outside. They moved together like a flock of birds. They wear pants with long pants legs. Something was being crafted, constructed, and they were here to see it take place. The people came out through the door and came out to stand outside.

Indoors it is very quiet and dark and cold and calm. There is a staircase there that leads to upstairs. If I go upstairs there is a face there, maybe my own reflection actually. Yes, I can see my own reflection of my face on a reflective surface there, it must be the same window glass that I encountered earlier. It has to do with a construction, meaning the act of constructing, and not meant as a noun.

There is nothing of a rounded shape on the building itself. The building stands sturdy. There is no water here. It has to do with what was constructed, because someone fell down. Something was built, it was a red brick building with a large glass window up above. The target seems to be a building.

- 1 someone walking on that beam
- 3 the happy people crowd coming outside to see and to watch up
- 2 the red massive building which feels cool inside
- 1 the many shoes walking around there and eagerly going outside to see

- 3 the fact that someone heavy fell down and landed on the pavement outside
- 2 the red brick building, and how it extends upwards
- 3 the massiveness of the red building, its weight where it sits
- 6 the man who was climbing up with a ladder (presumably the one who would later fall)

You don't go inside of the building, you look outside of it. We are standing in front of a red building. Something went into the manhole, there is a guy lurking inside of it.

6:35 PM End.
