First and main initial element is the purple shape of undetermined identity. It is wet here on the ground, the wet area has a red border around it. An animal or a human, most likely an animal, is touching with both hands into the water, dipping its hands into the water. The animal has a yellow beige pointy chin with yellow straw-like coarse longer blonde hairs, drawn here under the water and also on the horse animal itself. Like goat or horse, also has blonde hairs on the head. Was once seen with either a red shirt with white dots, or white shirt with red dots. Some mountain rocks formation on the left shore of the water. Background is white wall with brown board across. Wetness, and animal putting hands into the water, and yellow hairs on the animal, are significant.

Target does have ducks in water. I forgot to say in the report that it was significant that the animal is also chewing and eating something. I see a good correlation to the target image, this session produced more details (than most or many in previous sessions in this larger experiment), also the feeling of wetness from the water was refreshing since I have not had that in many or most or possibly even all of several past sessions in the experiment in the previous protocols that involved decoys!

1:35 PM End session.
