Plants that are hanging toward the left and down from the top left, I mean leaning, since they are rooted on the ground. There is a blue gridwork which is flat and embedded in this green, one portion of it extends upward like the shape of a ladder. The ground is solid and dark and lumpy, dirt or larger lumps of dark brown material was seen over the ground. A yellow decorative emblem sits in the center. A potted plant to the right, behind it above the ground is a dark brown board or ledge. An animal was sensed in the lower left. Water was found to the left at ground level. Below the ground, further down, is that red shape, but under the red shape is a solid ground line. It feels like we are in nature. The water is not significant, since it was seen outside of frame while investigating the borders and surroundings, the water might not be spotted on the target image. The plants are the main element, and how they are leaning toward the left and down from their top.

Feedback: The target was a video file, I will not watch the video and I disqualify this session from the experiment.
