Four search words chosen by random word generator, the words are known to me from start of session.

Shoulders Orange Sari Crow

Something lying horizontally is billowy with wavy patterns but is not moving waves, very many folds in the pattern. It is low to the ground or even on the floor. Red brown background. Gentle and calm. Something yellow on the lower right border as a separate element. Anger if I press on the billowy element (yes secondary stage probing already done, pressing is a probing method and is initial stage activity).

We are low to the ground, nothing is high up and nothing is rising up. Gentle and calm here. The beautiful folds. If I push a thin spear (yes) through the folds I run into something juicy.

So calm and peaceful here, no disturbance from anybody. Green with a beautiful bright flash of turquoise was found in the right side while probing across the top of the folds.

On the right side where all the colors were found there is something thick like a hand and it is not all flat there. The yellow rises up a bit and is not flat against the floor.

Fantastic. I nailed the color of the orange fabric with many folds and the colored spots on the side. Even I am impressed with myself on this one. Grade A.
