Start 12:03 noon

There is an activity with the water but the human stands on the dry ground and does not go into it. Probe the water: I find many rock pebbles smooth oval rocks under the shallow water's surface. The green element from the dish goes into the water. Probe the green element: It makes someone feel very happy. Probe green element surfaces and inside and purpose: It is being washed in the river. It is soft and thick.

Probe the feet of the human, is it a human, is it barefoot or wearing shoes: She is laughing and smiling. She is happy about something that has been done whose result is in front of her. She faces in toward the camera. And the children are playing nearby in the near background on the right side, the children are playing soccer or something. Probe for what the children are doing: The children are frantic, and there are like jumping fish, maybe these children are the jumping fish. Probe the children: They are trying to get back down again. It is like a pile of jumping fish out of water, they try to jump back down again but they can't get down into a water. What I felt right now makes me never eat fish again, they are aware of their bodies and they feel sensations such as agitation and stress and they are trying to live and survive, they are using all the power in their bodies to try to push down by jumping up and trying to push down. I won't ever eat fish again for the rest of my life no matter what happens. I will not cause fish any sensations like that, and also I believe that we eat the sensations and suffering of a murdered animal and that it manifests similar illness in ourselves. I do not want a fish to feel that way and I do not want to manifest any feelings of that kind into myself either, it is unnecessary.

There are children laughing and playing here in a close cluster they are happy they seem to all be kicking at one item at their feet. They are chasing something.

The dish is a cooking dish like a big wok pan and the woman is showing us by tilting the dish towards the camera to show us what she has cooked. Look inside the pan closely and do a taste test: The children are running around and playing with the white thing that they are chasing and they are laughing and chuckling. This target is warm and inviting. The woman has fetched some water from the water on the left into the pan and has brought the pan back to here.

Perfection. I knew there were those thin groove lines in the dish, actually I did draw the groove lines. This session is fantastic how much I enjoyed this!
