Target WR1

Today April 16, 2019

Start 8:38 PM

There is something beautiful and white a bit above in the image though not high up in the sky. Below it closer down on the image is something very heavy and dark. The white is arched downward and has many black windows in a row. The white and the black elements form a peculiar contrast with each other, it is like the white is a woman who wants to be free and rise up and the black is a man who is holding her back with weight, they are an odd pair to say the least.

Hm ok, I accidentally had the mouse cursor land on the icon on the bottom of the computer screen which was the internet browser window, just hovering over it pops up a small version of the internet browser so a small icon of the internet page with image was revealed, I therefore have to end this session now due to this little accident, just as I was about to start to probe some more.

8:44 PM End RV due to mishap where the target image was revealed prematurely see notes above.

WOO!! SUPER
AA!! Grade A.

I was about to enjoy probing this target, because the signal was super strong and the elements gorgeously strong, oh well. But it is clear now that these targets are beautifully gorgeously functional!

8:47 PM End session.
