Start

For this session I try a different procedure, where I will only draw and not write, other than to perhaps write a summary at the end. I will also stay at the drawing page and not keep the target source page (with text box over the target image) open on the screen. I will load the target image page of course, but then stay on the drawing page. Otherwise I always have the source page with text box open and only go to drawing page when I want to add to the drawing and then return to source page with text box.

Summary after drawing: We are up in a really high tower. A man is up there and feels fear, and being so high up also gives a dizzy feeling. The top of the tower has a wide compartment where people can be, and the tower itself beneath it is narrower. Something about up in the sky also, a big commercial white airplane. Emphasis map has a directionality and movement sweeping us toward the up in the right side.

7:28 PM End RV.

Well I got the ornaments on top of the posts on either side of the fence. I could have probed around more to see where we are, but I give this session a B. I also had a ladder and that is similar to the white gate. I think I prefer to work with notes. I also had the thick railing that the person up in my tower was leaning against, you can see I drew a blue man on the left side of the top of the tower. Grade is B.
